Economic Development

Marion County Extension &
4-H Service District

The Children and Families Commission brings together community leaders to develop creative solutions to complex issues, and is committed to breaking barriers, building capacity, and responding to community needs to maximize the life success of every child in Marion County. With membership from a mental health, law enforcement, family support, social services, and nonprofit organizations, the commission is dedicated to bringing resource partners together and supporting a coordinated effort to address youth homelessness. The commission's Youth Resources Action Team has been actively engaged in seeking solutions to youth homelessness and supporting local initiatives through Mid-Willamette Valley Community Action Agency. An award through the Youth Homelessness Demonstration Program would significantly aid in the Commission's ongoing work.

The issue of youth homelessness is of pressing concern in Marion County. Youth leave their homes for both voluntary and involuntary reasons, commonly as a result of family violence, parental substance abuse, family conflict, economic issues, and other family dysfunction. These young people lack the skills and resources to survive and thrive outside of a home environment and are dependent on a local safety net of resources to see them through their time of crisis.

Community Services Department

When organizations, communities, and systems remain in silos, innovation is stymied and experiential knowledge is not shared. Additionally, the lack of systemic coordination results in a scarcity of data, which prevents communities from understanding the nature of youth homelessness in its respective areas and across the state. Creating an avenue through which technical assistance, coordination, and collaboration can thrive would lead to a greater understanding of youth homelessness in Oregon, allow for the development of data-driven interventions, and foster innovation in creating paths out of homelessness.

Sincerely,

Resilience

The Biology of Stress and the Science of Hope

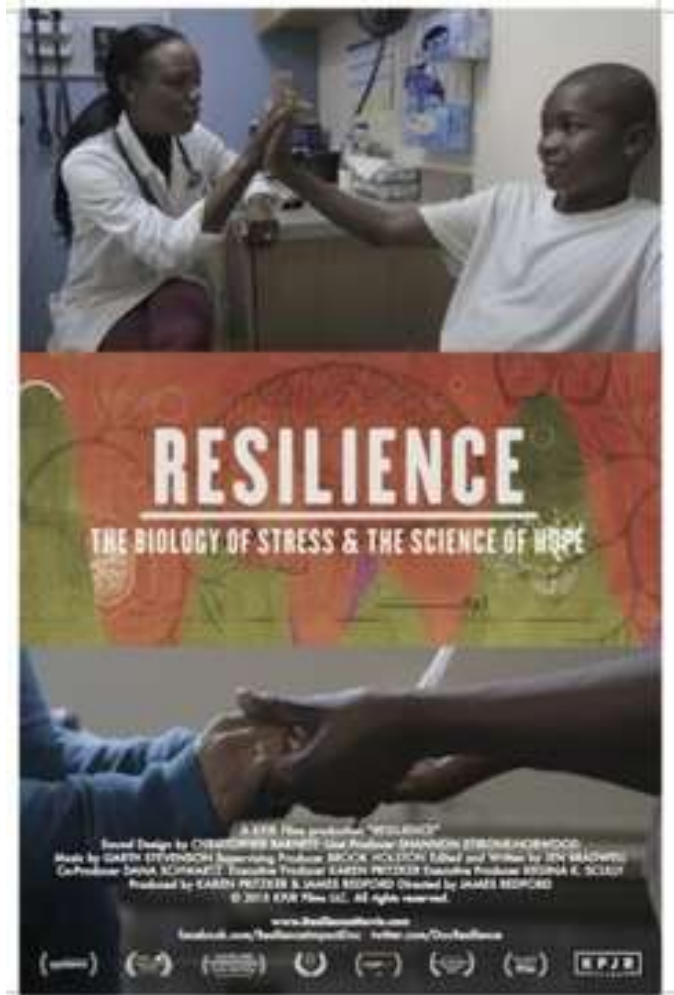

2016 (NR) 60 min.

Director: James Redford

Featuring: Nadine Burke Harris, Jack Shonkoff, Robert Anda, Vincent Felitti, Laura Lawrence, David Johnson, Laura Porter, Victor Carrion, Alice Forrester

Synopsis: “The child may not remember, but the body remembers.” The original research was controversial, but the findings revealed the most important public health findings of a generation.

RESILIENCE is a one-hour documentary that delves into the science of Adverse Childhood Experiences (ACEs) and the birth of a new movement to treat and prevent Toxic Stress. Now understood to be one of the leading causes of every- thing from heart disease and cancer to substance abuse and depression, extremely stressful experiences in childhood can alter brain development and have lifelong effects on health and behavior. However, as experts and practitioners profiled in RESILIENCE are proving, what’s predictable is preventable. These physicians, educators, social workers and communities are daring to talk about the effects of divorce, abuse and neglect. And they’re using cutting edge science to help the next generation break the cycles of adversity and disease.

The champion would work under the direction of Catholic Community Services (CCS) and would focus on the work plan drafted by CCS, Child Welfare (Ormond), and Community Services. Commissioner Carlson had a discussion with Ormond Fredericks, DHS District 3 Manager, and encouraged the group to work with DHS on the language used about this position and the scope of work. Ormond was identified to serve on the interview team. Once the position is filled, the champion will be charged with advancing the work plan and keeping all partners in the loop.
