The Someone You Love documentary explores the lives of five women affected by the Human Papillomavirus (HPV), the virus that causes several types of cancer, such as cervical and head/neck cancers. Their stories shed light on the risks, myths, problems, politics, misconceptions and truths of the widespread HPV epidemic.

Attendees will learn about HPV-associated cancer and HPV vaccines to protect males and females against diseases, including cancers caused by HPV.

The showing of the film will be followed by a question-and-answer session with medical professionals.

Light refreshments will be provided.

This viewing is intended for parents, medical professionals and young adults (high school age and older). This presentation discusses sensitive issues and mature content.

For questions, please contact Julie Robertson, 503.795.3914 or julie.robertson@cancer.org.
